Amy Gillett

1976 – 2005

Amy Gillett was a member of Australia's elite athletic community. The nation shared the grief of her family and teammates when she was tragically killed whilst training in Germany in July 2005.

Amy was committed to sport, having had a successful career in rowing that saw her represent Australia at the Atlanta Olympic Games, before becoming a champion cyclist.

But sport was not her only passion. Her commitment to academic endeavours was widely acknowledged.

Amy had a Bachelor of Applied Science (Exercise and Sports Science) with Honours in Human Movement. Amy had commenced her PhD into how women react to life after sport, irrespective of their level, achievements and profile.

Amy Gillett
FOUNDATION
Safe together

Supporting AGF

The Amy Gillett Foundation was established in 2005 following the death of Amy Gillett by her husband Simon Gillett, together with Amy's parents Mary and Denis and friends concerned at the state of safety on Australian roads.

What We Do

The Amy Gillett Foundation has evolved to become the leading bike rider safety organisation in Australia, driven by a core mission to reduce the death and injury of bike riders.

How We Do It

As Australia's leading cycling safety organisation, the Amy Gillett Foundation continues to promote actions to make cycling safer in Australia, such as:

1. A metre matters laws across Australia, to make sure drivers pass cyclists safely
2. Supporting research to improve road safety for cyclists, through our Cycle Aware and research scholarship programs
3. Investing in cycling infrastructure
4. Educating cyclists to respect and obey road laws and be safe and responsible road users
5. Teaching drivers how to share the road safely with bike riders, including during driver education
6. Safer vehicles and safer speeds

Thank you

Everybody deserves to ride in safety for work, sport and play.
